

The World is WATCHING

EDITED BY

David Robinson, Alice Palmer and
Edward L. "Buzz" Palmer

FOREWORD BY

Haki R. Madhubuti

Being Black in America is a journey and a quest for self-affirmation and alliance and place. Black Americans have refused to be acquiescent, and our cry, in the words of Maya Angelou, "And Still We Rise", has left an indelible imprint at home and abroad. In The World is Watching, notable world figures talk about their personal experiences with African Americans and the impacts these experiences have had on them.

Join us for this book signing and discussion which will feature Haki R. Madhubuti, the editors and several of the authors of The World is Watching. A reception will follow.

Wednesday
February 20, 2019
5:30-7:30 p.m.

Reception 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Jane Addams Hull-House Museum Residents' Dining Hall
800 S. Halsted Street
Chicago, IL 60607

Hosted by
UIC Great Cities Institute
Jane Addams Hull-House Museum

For more information and to RSVP for free,
visit greatcities.uic.edu

Edward L. "Buzz" Palmer, Alice Palmer, and son David Robinson.

Available on
Amazon and Third World Press

Haki R. Madhubuti, Publisher, Third World Press Foundation